INFORMATION AND DIRECTIONS

Preventive of typical manifestations of skin age so-called "critical", or at the time in which begins the destructuring of the natural cutaneous support with consequent formation of marked wrinkles on the dehydrated and dull skin. The innovative formulation, expresses its effectiveness on the synergistic action of two highly effective active ingredients: staminal cells derived from apple and soy isoflavones . The first are useful in facilitating tired tissue repair, and seconds (soy isoflavones) for resolute firming action thanks to the significant content of genistein . Can be used day&night.

Functional principles:

Soy isoflavones: Active ingredient with firming and anti –wrinkle action extracted from soybeans . It is an active compound with an effective firming and elasticity action characterized by the high content of Genistein . This active substance strengthens the connective tissue making the dermis more compact. Skin aging, associated with menopause, stress climate and environmental cause in the dermis a lack of estrogen. Reintegrating these shortcomings with isoflavones, many benefits will be always visible. Soy isoflavones inhibit "Protein Tyrosine Kinase " and "Map Kinase " , are enzymes involved in the transmission of intracellular signals that modulate the growth and differentiation of cells. Furthermore it was shown that genistein stimulates the synthesis of collagen.

Apple staminal cells: Unlike embryonic stem cells, adult stem cells, persist for all life long and are essential to maintain and repair tissues. Some stem cells in the basal layer of the epidermis produce all other keratinocytes that are differentiated in the corneum stratum and are renewed every four weeks. In mature skins, stem cells of the epidermis are less active and less numerous leading to the formation of wrinkles and an increase in the time of renewal of the epidermis. Also plants have stem cells and these, after isolation, can be grown. It was discovered that an extract of apple stem cells in humans stimulates the proliferation of stem cells in the blood, and increases the life of the fibroblasts in the skin. In a clinical treatment with this new product, for 4 weeks on 20 subjects, it has significantly reduced wrinkles in the area around the eyes.
